You can also get some hints from the jewelry and clothes you wear. Which metals and colors look great on you? Which make your skin glow? If you reach for silver jewelry and white, black, blue, green, and blue-red clothes, you probably have cool undertones. Tend to favor gold jewelry and ivory, cream, brown, warm reds, and yellows? You likely have warm undertones.

Ensuring the Perfect Match

Now that you know your undertone and shade, how do you ensure that you have your best color? Your perfect match should beautifully blend into your natural skin color. Keep in mind that if you don't see your desired coverage after application, your color may be too light. Try choosing a color one shade darker to help you get the coverage you're after.

To check your match, generously apply Savvy Minerals Foundation to your lower cheek, near the jawline, and look at the application in natural light. If it disappears on your skin, you know you've found the one! Remember that depending on the season—and your tan—your shade might change. Check your foundation often to make sure you're always wearing your best match.

Pro tip: You can mix Savvy Minerals Foundations together to create a custom foundation shade made just for you.
